EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Constitution, Article III, Section 7, provides that "No law shall be made respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, and the free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship, without discrimination or preference, shall forever be allowed." The Civil Code, Article 32, further provides that any public officer or employee, or any private individual, who directly or indirectly obstructs, defeats, violates, or in any manner impedes or impairs the exercise of freedom of religion of another person shall be liable to the latter for damages.

The above mandate, however, does not include any law that would enforce the right to the free exercise of religion by students in public schools.

This bill seeks to enforce this right to the free exercise of religion of students in public schools by providing for the imposition of a civil liability to anyone caught violating this right.

AN ACT
PROTECTING THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE TO FREEDOM OF RELIGION IN THE
PHILIPPINES GUARANTEED UNDER SECTION 5, ARTICLE III OF THE CONSTITUTION

Be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Philippines in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. *Short Title. – This Act shall be known as the "Magna Carta on Religious Freedom Act."

SECTION 2. *Declaration of Policy. – It is the declared policy of the State to protect and uphold the fundamental and inalienable right of every person to freely choose and exercise one's religion and beliefs and to act and live according to one's conscience as guaranteed under Section 5, Article III of the Constitution and other international human rights instruments, including the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the Declaration on the Elimination on All Forms of Intolerance and Discrimination Based on Religion and Belief, to which the State is a party or that it adheres thereto.

The right of every Filipino to profess, practice and propagate religious beliefs must always be recognized, respected, allowed and protected.

Towards this end, the State must ensure that no act of the government or any of its agencies, instrumentalities, officers or employees shall burden, curtail, impinge or encroach on the person's right to exercise one's religious belief, freedom and liberty of conscience. In addition, the government must also prohibit any act by a person, natural or juridical, or any group of persons that burdens, curtails, impinges or encroaches on the said right.

SECTION 3. Definition of Terms. – As used in this Act:

- a. Atheism refers to the denial of the existence of a personal God or deity, and shall be treated as form of religion for the purpose of entitlement to the protection of freedom of religion and conscience;
- b. Child refers to any person below eighteen (18) years of age or older but who is incapable of taking care of oneself, as defined under the Special Protection of Children against Abuse, Exploitation and Discrimination Act (Republic Act No. 7610, as amended);
- c. Conscience refers to a person's sense or conviction of right or wrong whether or not such sense or conviction comes from a well-defined religious belief;
- d. Discrimination refers to any distinction, exclusion, restriction or preference on the basis of a person's religion or conscience and which has the purpose or effect of burdening, curtailing, impinging or encroaching on the person's right to freedom of exercise of religion and liberality of conscience;
- e. Expression of religious belief or conscience refers to the outward or overt manifestation of one's religious belief or conscience, whether by speech, or action, sense or conviction of right or wrong, whether or not such sense or conviction comes from a well-defined religious belief;
- f. Guardian refers to a legal guardian or any person, other than the biological parents, who takes the responsibility of taking care of the personal and property rights of a child;
- g. Religion refers to a particular system of belief, faith, or "paniniwala" concerning God or Higher Authority, whether personal or otherwise, or a transcendent or divine deity or deities, whether in the singular or plural, as well as the recognition, worship, obedience, or submission to said God or Higher Authority, either by a fixed dogma, creed, set of doctrines or belief, or code of conduct or lifestyle, or by an individual's sense of appropriate or proper behavior, code, or lifestyle in relation to that God or Higher Authority;
- h. Religious Belief refers to a particular belief or set of beliefs held by a particular religion, or by an individual person;
- i. Religious Freedom refers to the freedom to change, adopt, or retain one's religion or belief; or from coercion that would impair one's freedom to have or adopt a religion or belief of one's choice, and to manifest one's religion or belief in worship, observance, practice and teaching, in public or private, either individually or in community with others;
- j. Religious group refers to a church, religious entity, religious organization or group of persons who have formed together into a congregation for the worship of a Higher Authority according to the group's established doctrines and ceremonies whether or not the same is registered with the government. For purposes of this Act, the group does not need to be registered to be entitled to recognition as a religious group.

SECTION 4. *Freedom of Religion and Conscience Protected. – The right of every person to freedom of religion and liberty of conscience, as well as the free exercise or expression thereof, as defined and enumerated in this Act, shall be protected by the State. It shall not be denied, burdened, regulated, or curtailed even if it is a result of the rule of general applicability of existing laws, except in the cases provided in Section 6 hereof.

SECTION 5. *Scope. – This Act shall not apply to the act of the Government in enacting laws in the exercise of its police power. If any such law is declared unconstitutional, the law shall be invalidated but the Government through its responsible officers, shall not be subjected to any prosecution under this Act.

SECTION 6. *Exception Clause. – The right of every person to freedom of religion, or the free exercise thereof and liberality of conscience can be denied, regulated, burdened, or curtailed only if it can be demonstrated that:

- a. the free exercise of religious freedom or conscience of a religious group or individual results to violence or inflicts or poses to inflict direct or indirect physical or material harm or danger on other people, or infringe on their own freedom of religion or conscience; and
- b. it is necessary to protect public safety, public order, health, property and good morals.

Further, the State shall ensure that in burdening, regulating, or curtailing religious freedom or freedom of conscience in the circumstances above-mentioned, the State shall adopt the least restrictive means. It shall also ensure that the measures taken do not become a basis, reason, or excuse for the defamation, discrimination, or infliction of physical harm, hostility, violence, war, or dissemination of propaganda or advocacy against any such person or group of persons whose expression of religious freedom or conscience is subject of burden, regulation, or curtailment under conditions stated in this Act.

SECTION 7. *Right to Choose a Religion or Religious Group. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a person to freely choose one's religion, belief or religious group.

SECTION 8. *Right to Exercise or Express Religious Belief, Practices, Acts or Activities. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a person to freely profess, exercise, manifest, or express religious belief, practices, acts or activities, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, without fear of discrimination subject to exceptions provided under this Act.

SECTION 9. *Right to Act in Accordance with Conscience. – The State shall similarly protect and promote the right of a person to act, without any form of coercion, in accordance with one's conscience: Provided, That the act does not inflict physical or material harm to any person, does not infringe on the religious freedom of others or is not contrary to morals, health, property, public order and safety.

SECTION 10. *Right to Propagate Religious Beliefs. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a person to propagate one's religious belief without any form of coercion subject to the exceptions provided under this Act.

SECTION 11. *Right to Disseminate Religious Publications. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a person to disseminate religious information or publication, in whatever form, kind or nature and through any platform such as broadcast, print, social media or other online platforms, subject to the exceptions provided under this Act.

SECTION 12. *Right to Religious Worship and Ceremonies. – The State shall protect and promote the right to religious worship and ceremonies, including that of indigenous cultural communities and indigenous peoples, free from interruption, disturbance, violence, and threats thereto, subject to the exceptions provided under this Act.

SECTION 13. *Right to Organizational Independence. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a religious group to manage its own affairs independent from political influence or control, subject to existing laws, rules and regulations, and the exceptions provided under this Act.

SECTION 14. *Right against Discrimination in Employment. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a person to equal opportunity and treatment, and non-discrimination in employment, by virtue of one's religious affiliation or belief.

SECTION 15. *Right to Freedom against Discrimination in Educational Institutions. – The State shall protect and promote the right of a person to be free from discrimination on the basis of one's religion, religious belief, religious group or moral sense or conviction in any educational institution: Provided, That educational institutions that are founded on religious beliefs or tenets shall be entitled to standards or codes of behavior pursuant to their religious beliefs and disciplines.

SECTION 16. *Right of Companies or Businesses to be Founded on Religious Belief. – It shall be the right of business people and founders or operators of business outfits to establish the companies, offices, or operations, according to certain tenets of religious beliefs: Provided, That the same are contained in writing and form part of the company's vision and mission statements, in which case, such company or outfit shall be accorded the guarantees provided for under this Act.

SECTION 17. *Right of Parents or Legal Guardians to Rear Children. – The State shall protect and promote the right of parents or guardians to be at liberty in rearing their children according to their religion, belief, or conscience: Provided, That a child who comes to the age of majority shall be respected in his or her choice of religious belief: Provided, further, That in such a case, parental authority under the Civil Code, the Family Code, or The Child And Youth Welfare Code as may be applicable, shall not be deemed diminished in any way.

SECTION 18. *Right to Tax Exemption. – The State shall protect the right of churches or religious organizations formed and operating exclusively for religious purposes to be exempted from the payment of taxes on all its real properties that are actually, directly, and exclusively used for religious purposes, pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and as provided by law.

SECTION 19. *Prohibited Acts. – It shall be unlawful for any person, natural or juridical, to:

- a. Compel a person, by means of force, threat, intimidation or undue influence, to choose or not to choose a particular religious group, or to subscribe to a particular religious belief: Provided, That the practice of certain religious groups or faiths of requiring either or both couples to be a member thereof before marriage may be officiated shall not be prohibited;
- b. Threaten a person with harm or exert undue influence or pressure in order to prevent such person from changing one's religion or belief or from transferring from one religious group to another;
- c. Compel a person, by means of force, threat, intimidation or undue influence, to commit an act which is in violation of one's religious belief or conscience;
- d. Defame, harass, humiliate or offend a person by reason of one's religious belief or the practice of such belief;
- e. Obstruct, hinder or prevent the flow of and access to religious information;
- f. Hinder or prevent a person from exercising any act that is an expression of one's religious belief;
- g. Perform or threaten to perform any act that constitutes or promotes stigma, hate or persecution of a particular religious belief, religious practice, or religious community;
- h. Perform or threaten to perform any act that effectively impedes, obstructs, prohibits, prevents or inflicts any harm or threatens to cause harm, or in any manner, prevents any person from freely and lawfully expressing and exercising one's religious beliefs;
- i. Compel a person, by means of force, threat, intimidation or undue influence to lawfully express and exercise religious beliefs against one's will;
- j. Obstruct, hinder, cause undue delay or unjustifiably refuse the production, or the valid and free distribution of religious publications: Provided, That such publications do not contradict the religious beliefs of the publishing company, and such publication does not violate any existing law;

k. Exert undue influence over the decisions made by any leader or leaders of a religious community through monetary, political, social and personal gains as well as parochial interest;

l. Deny employment to qualified applicants solely on the basis of religion;

m. Severe or terminate employment of a person solely on the basis of one's adherence to religious belief;

n. Deny maliciously and deliberately a religious institution or a person employed by a religious entity the tax exemptions they are entitled to; and Commit any other act that curtails or violates the rights of a person to religious freedom as provided for under this Act.

SECTION 20. Penalties. – Any person, natural or juridical, who violates Section 19 of this Act shall suffer the following penalties:

a. For the first violation:

1) For a private individual – a fine of not less than One hundred thousand pesos (P100,000.00) but not exceeding Five hundred thousand pesos (P500,000.00), or imprisonment of not less than six (6) years and one (1) day but not more than eight (8) years, or both, at the discretion of the court;

2) For a juridical person – a fine of not less than One hundred thousand pesos (P100,000.00) but not exceeding Five hundred thousand pesos (P500,000.00), or imprisonment of not less than six (6) years and one (1) day but not more than eight (8) years, or both, at the discretion of the court, on the official or employee directly liable and responsible for the prohibited act.

Provided, That for the juridical entity, a fine of Fifty thousand pesos (P50,000.00) to Two hundred thousand pesos (P200,000.00) shall be imposed on officers directly running the operations of the juridical entity.

b. For any subsequent violation:
